President's Message

Welcome to the 1991 edition of the Home Buyer's Guide to After-Sales Service. This publication is designed to help the consumer begin an effective job of choosing a builder, which is the first and most important step in acquiring a new home. Thanks to the regular publication of this Guide, more builders than ever are implementing aggressive after-sales service efforts and achieving "above average" or "excellent" ratings in the Guide.

The Ontario New Home Warranty Program is designated by the Provincial Government to administer the Ontario New Home Warranties Plan Act. The Act is designed as consumer protection legislation. Since the best-protected consumers are those who know their rights, we strive to keep consumers fully informed about their rights under the Act, and to make certain that all builders adhere to the Act. We believe this Guide contributes to those goals.

Each year the Guide is refined, updated and improved. Rating criteria are designed to be fair to the builder while still providing information that allows their potential customers to evaluate them. Please read the pages at the beginning of the Guide carefully, so that you will understand how the builders are rated and what the ratings mean.

The process of choosing a new home must begin with choosing the right builder. Once you choose, remember that the Program is here to help consumers. Know your warranty rights and how to use them — a summary is included in this Guide. You can obtain more information by contacting our nearest Regional Office. A list of all of our offices is on the inside back cover.

If you encounter a problem with your builder that you cannot resolve, please contact the Warranty Program. We're here to help.

The Ontario New Home Warranty Program

The Ontario New Home Warranty Program was established in 1976 to administer the Ontario New Home Warranties Plan Act. The Act has a dual purpose: First, to ensure that new home purchasers in Ontario are treated fairly by builders, and second, to encourage improvement in the quality of residential housing in Ontario.

Although it administers a government Act, the ONHWP is a private non-profit corporation. It is entirely self-funding through fees charged to builders, and does not require taxpayer funding. It is the only mandatory new home warranty program in Canada. Since its inception, the ONHWP has provided protection for over 600,000 new homes. Over $65 million in claims has been paid out to new home purchasers since the start of the program.

The Warranty Program is administered by a 14-member Board of Directors. The Board includes representatives from the building industry, mortgage insurers and mortgage lenders, the Provincial Government, the manufactured housing industry, municipalities and the Consumers' Association of Canada (Ontario).

The ONHWP's general mission is to see that every new home buyer in Ontario receives a quality product.

The Program has a network of Regional Offices across Ontario, and works to educate and inform consumers of their rights and responsibilities and their warranty protection under the Act and how to use them. ONHWP also works to educate and inform builders about effective construction techniques, and about their responsibilities to their customers.

How to Use this Guide

We have made every effort to ensure that the information provided in this Guide was accurate at the time it was published. For further and updated information, call the nearest Regional Office of the Ontario New Home Warranty Program. The offices are listed on the inside back cover.

1. Builders are listed alphabetically. All builders listed were registered with the Ontario New Home Warranty Program as of December 31, 1990. Each builder's listing will tell you:

- ☛ How long the builder has been registered.
- ☛ The total number of possessions (closings) for 1988, 1989 and 1990.
- ☛ The Program's assessment of the builder's record of after-sales service over those three years.

2. Please note that the rating system has its limitations.

- ☛ The rating reflects only the builder's record of after-sales service — that is, how well the builder handles consumer complaints. It is not a judgement of the quality, design, or the value of the homes. To find out these things you must inspect the builder's homes yourself and talk to people who have purchased them.
- ☛ Builders who have not been registered for at least three years, or builders with fewer than 10 possessions in the three-year period, are not rated because the Program does not have enough information to make a proper assessment.

How we rate the builders

The Program is committed to making this Guide a relevant and useful research tool to be used by consumers shopping for a good builder before they begin shopping for their home. Therefore we use a builder rating system designed to show the consumer whether a builder's record of after-sales service is good, average or below average. The Program prides itself on having very high standards.

Remember: These ratings refer only to the quality of after-sales service. They are not intended to rate the quality or value of the homes themselves. It is up to the consumer to evaluate the quality of the home they wish to buy.

Here are a few terms you should keep in mind when evaluating a builder's rating:

Possessions: A 'possession' occurs when a purchaser gets occupancy of a home. That date is indicated by the Certificate of Completion and Possession (CCP), completed by the purchaser with the builder on or before the day of closing, and sent to the Warranty Program by the builder. The Warranty coverage starts on the date of possession specified on the CCP.

Conciliations: Conciliation is a process that takes place when the owner and the builder cannot agree on whether the builder's warranty does in fact cover a disputed item or items. Conciliation meetings may be requested by the home owner or the builder. At a conciliation meeting, a Warranty Program representative visits the home to inspect the disputed item and to determine whether or not it is covered. Both the homeowner and the builder's representative may be present. If it turns out that the builder is responsible, it becomes a chargeable conciliation.
Now here's how the rating system works:

- ☐ Ratings are based on the ratio of chargeable conciliations to the number of possessions. So a large number of possessions compared with a small number of chargeable conciliations means mostly satisfied consumers, and a better builder rating.
- ☐ The ratings are for the years 1988, '89 and '90.
- ☐ The two-house symbol  (Excellent) means that the builder had a ratio of no more than one chargeable conciliation per 75 homes possessed, or built 10 or more homes and did not have any chargeable conciliations during the rating period.
- ☐ The one-house symbol  (Above Average) means that the builder had a ratio of no more than one chargeable conciliation for each 50 homes possessed during the rating period.
- ☐ The Average rating means a builder had no more than one chargeable conciliation per 25 possessions.
- ☐ The Below Average category refers to builders with more than one chargeable conciliation per 25 possessions. Builders who produce fewer than 25 possessions in the three-year rating period and have more than one chargeable conciliation will also be rated below average. These ratings are there to clearly label those builders who have room for improvement in their after-sales service. The ratings appear in words only; there are no symbols used.
- ☐ Multiple Listings: Builders who work through separately registered companies, but who are part of one corporate group, are often listed together. They appear as a group under the main corporate name they use for advertising and selling and are rated accordingly. Builders who do business under a marketing name will be listed under that name and not as a numbered or differently named company.

Builders not rated: Any builder listed but not rated has, as part of the listings, a brief line explaining why there is no rating for after-sales service. The lack of a rating means we do not have enough information to provide a fair rating. Ratings do not appear for builders who:

- Were not registered during 1988. The Program only rates builders' after-sales service over a three-year period. This is to give the builder a fair rating and to provide the consumer with a true picture of a builder's performance. The years measured in this Guide are 1988, 1989 and 1990. Builders more recently registered with us may be providing fine service but do not yet qualify for rating.
- Did not build at least 25 new homes (possessions) during the three-year rating period.
- Did not have at least 10 new possessions during the three-year rating period, and no chargeable conciliations. Note: Builders with 10 to 24 new possessions and no chargeable conciliations are only eligible for an excellent rating.
- Produced fewer than 25 possessions in the three-year period, and had only one chargeable conciliation. (If they have two or more chargeable conciliations they can be rated Below Average.)

Builders registered but not active: These are builders who retained their registered builder status, but who did not have any possessions or chargeable conciliations during the three year rating period. They are listed separately, following the listing of active builders for each region. Many builders fall into the ineligible or inactive categories.

Rating period: January 1, 1988 to December 31, 1990

The conciliation process

Whenever possible, the Program encourages home buyers and builders to settle disputes amicably, between themselves. However, when this is not possible, the Program offers a conciliation service. Here are two examples of conciliations — one in which the homeowner's complaints were covered by warranty, and another in which they were not. A conciliator can be concerned with many complaints in a single home, and may discover that some defects are covered by warranty while others are not. Once the conciliator makes the inspection, he or she will produce a written report, which is usually sent to the homeowner and the builder within 14 days of the inspection.

A homeowner complains of a leak in a basement wall, and an ensuite bathroom door that would not close.

The ONHWP conciliator meets the homeowner and the builder's representative at the home, at a time convenient for all concerned.

First the basement:

The conciliator observes a hairline crack in the east concrete foundation wall, about six meters from the north end of the home. The crack extends from the junction of the concrete floor to the top of the foundation wall. The conciliator performs a "hose test," which is exactly what it sounds like: Running a water hose outside the foundation on the other side of the wall. She observes water coming through the crack within 10 minutes.

Verdict: The item is covered by the builder's two-year warranty against water penetration from outside the home through the foundation walls. The builder must repair the crack.

Next, the bathroom:

An inspection reveals that the hollow-core wood door to the bathroom was not fully latching.

Verdict: Since the builder's one-year warranty obligations include the requirement that the home be constructed "in a workmanlike way," the poorly-fitted, non-latching door is covered. The door must be adjusted.

2

A homeowner complains that windows do not fit properly, and that the hardwood flooring is cracked.

An ONHWP conciliator meets both the homeowner and a builder representative at the home, at a mutually convenient time.

First, the windows:

An inspection of the thermopane windows in the family room and master bedroom show the conciliator that the windows operate acceptably. The installation appears to be proper and workmanlike, and he can see no infraction of the Ontario Building Code.

Verdict: Since the builder's requirements for meeting the Ontario Building Code and completing a proper, workmanlike job have been met, the warranty does not apply. The builder has no obligation to adjust the windows.

Next, the hardwood floor:

An inspection of the hardwood strip flooring in the living and dining rooms revealed slight separations at the joints. The separations were consistent with the normal and unavoidable shrinkage of the wood caused by drying after construction.

Verdict: The builder's warranty obligation specifically exclude the result of normal drying of construction materials. The builder had done a proper job of installation. The builder has no obligation to adjust the floors.

Warranty Protection in Ontario

As part of the Program's ongoing commitment to improve warranty protection for home buyers, enhancements to the warranty protection are introduced from time to time. In August 1989, for example, the maximum total warranty coverage for each single-family home or condominium unit was increased from $50,000 to $100,000.

Most recently, the builder's warranty obligations have been extended to two years on certain items, and the purchaser's total coverage for Major Structural Defects has been extended to seven years for new homes enroled after December 31, 1990.

In another recent enhancement, for condominium purchases made under Agreements of Purchase and Sale signed on or after March 1, 1991, the buyer is protected against unreasonable delays in the occupancy date.

Your Coverage

1. Deposit Protection

You are covered for your deposit and financial damages to a maximum of $20,000 in case the builder can't or won't complete the sale, through no fault of yours.

2. Incomplete Work Allowance

Once you have title to the home ONHWP will compensate you for incomplete work, to a maximum of either 2 per cent of the home's value or $5,000 — whichever is greater. But remember: The incomplete items must have been included in the Agreement of Purchase and Sale. If you don't have the items on an agreement in writing, they are not covered by the Warranty Program.

3. One-year Warranty Protection

Every builder warrants that the home is free from defects in workmanship and material, is fit to live in and meets the Ontario Building Code construction standards. The builder must correct any defects in workmanship or material for one year from the date on your Warranty Certificate. Your responsibility is to notify the builder and the Program in writing, before the end of the first year. If the builder does not respond within a reasonable time, write to the Warranty Program, for assistance. As long as your complaint was made before the warranty period expired, you're covered for warranted defects even if the "reasonable time" extends beyond the end of the warranty period.

4. Two-year Warranty Protection

The builder warrants against water seepage through the basement or foundation walls for two years. For new homes enroled after December 31, 1990, the builder also warrants for two years against:

Water penetration into the home from outside.

Defects in materials and workmanship in the the electrical, plumbing and heating delivery and distribution systems — which includes all wires, conduits, pipes, junctions, switches, receptacles and seals. (It does not include appliances, fixtures and fittings.)

Defects in materials and workmanship in the exterior cladding (outside wall coverings such as siding) that result in detachment, displacement or physical deterioration.

Violations of Ontario Building Code regulations affecting health and safety.

5. Major Structural Defect Protection

Here is what constitutes Major Structural Defects:

- (i) Defects in materials or workmanship that result in failure of a load-bearing part of the home.
- (ii) Defects, as defined in the Act, that adversely affect your use of the building. This includes damage due to soil movement, major cracks in the basement walls or the roof, or chemical breakdown of materials.

Homes enroled before December 31, 1990 are covered for five years against Major Structural Defects. Homes enroled after December 31, 1990 have seven years' coverage against Major Structural Defects.

6. Maximum Warranty Coverage

Each home has $100,000 coverage. In the case of condominium homes, there is additional coverage of the common elements of the entire project, which is calculated at $50,000 times the number of units, to a maximum of $2.5 million.

7. Protection Against Delayed Closings Without Advance Notice

(i) Major delay

Any builder anticipating a delay in closing of more than 15 days must notify the buyer at least 65 days before the original closing date, allowing five days for mailing, and set a new closing date.

(ii) Minor delay

Builders anticipating a delay in closing of no more than 15 days must notify the buyer at least 35 days before the original or extended closing date, allowing five days for mailing, and set a new closing date.

In all cases, the builder can have A TOTAL OF NO MORE THAN five days' grace, without penalty. In some circumstances a major delay and a minor extension can be combined. But beyond five days' grace, the buyer can claim compensation for up to $5,000 in out-of-pocket expenses that result from a delay in closing for which the builder did not give the required notice.

8. Protection Against Delayed Occupancy for Condominium Purchasers (For Agreements of Purchase and Sale signed after March 1, 1991)

(i) Confirmed & Tentative Occupancy Dates

Every Agreement of Purchase and Sale must contain a confirmed occupancy date, or a tentative occupancy date that is clearly identified as tentative. If the Agreement contains a tentative occupancy date, the purchaser is also entitled to receive notice of when he or she will be given a confirmed occupancy date. Such notice is to be based on a date or event that will trigger it — i.e., the purchaser is told that he or she will be given the confirmed date when the foundation is complete, or when some other stage in construction is reached.

(ii) Notice

The purchaser must be given this notice, as outlined in the Agreement, no later than 120 days before the confirmed date, and no later than 30 days following completion of the roof assembly. If the purchaser is not given notice of the confirmed date by 90 days prior to the tentative date in the original agreement, then the tentative date automatically becomes the confirmed date.

(iii) Earlier Occupancy

If a vendor can provide occupancy before the confirmed date he or she may do so — but this earlier occupancy cannot be required of the purchasers, unless they consent to it in writing.

(iv) Delays

As is the case for delayed closings for houses, the vendor may extend the confirmed occupancy date once by up to 120 days, if the purchaser is given written notice at least 65 days before the confirmed date. The vendor can also have a 15-day extension if the purchaser is given 35 days' notice.

In all cases, vendors are permitted a five-day grace period when they give notice to their purchasers. Beyond that, any vendor who fails to give proper notice will be required to give the purchaser compensation of up to $100 a day for living expenses and other expenses incurred as a result of the delay, to a maximum $5,000 total direct costs.

(v) Exceptions

A vendor is not responsible for delays caused by strikes, fires, civil insurrection, floods or "Acts of God."

9. Protection Against Substitutions Made Without Your Agreement

You are protected against substitutions of key elements of your new home or condominium unit, and in condominium common elements (i.e., the shared areas — parking garage, hallways, and so on). If significant changes are made without your approval, you can cancel the agreement and get your deposit back, and/or claim damages up to $20,000. Examples of builder substitutions not allowed include:

- |                                                             |                                                                    |
|-------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------|
| <input type="checkbox"/> major changes to the original plan | <input type="checkbox"/> brick color and type of exterior finishes |
| <input type="checkbox"/> reverse ("mirror image") plan      | <input type="checkbox"/> exterior dimensions of the house          |
| <input type="checkbox"/> house model and style of exterior  | <input type="checkbox"/> condominium unit model and style          |

Your Agreement of Purchase and Sale may also give you the right to choose certain colors and styles. If so, the builder cannot substitute these without your consent. If he does, you can demand that they be changed back, or the builder must make a cash settlement. Examples include:

- |                                                                            |                                                 |
|----------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------|
| <input type="checkbox"/> interior and exterior paint colors (not shadings) | <input type="checkbox"/> style of interior trim |
| <input type="checkbox"/> design and color of cabinets and countertops      | <input type="checkbox"/> floor finishes         |
| <input type="checkbox"/> color and type of kitchen and bath fixtures       |                                                 |

If the builder cannot supply your choice of color or finish, you must be notified in writing. You have seven days to make new selections. If you don't, the builder has the right to substitute options of equal or better value.

If you have problems

When you need to communicate with your builder regarding warranted defects in your new home, be persistent. If telephone calls don't bring results, write to confirm your conversations or to ask for information about your problem.

During the builder's warranty periods:

Be certain to send letters to the builder by registered mail, and ask the post office for an "AR" (acknowledgement of receipt) sticker. This includes a section to be signed by the person receiving your letter and returned to you as proof of delivery. File it with the registered mail receipt and a copy of the letter. Also, send us a copy of all your letters to the builder.

Be sure to bring any problems to the attention of the builder, and to ONHWP, before the end of the warranty period. In your letter, give the warranty number, the lot and plan numbers or condominium address and unit number. Describe the problem and ask the builder to correct it. Have someone proof-read the letter to make sure it cannot be misunderstood. If the builder does not reply within a reasonable time, write to the Warranty Program's Regional Office which serves your area.

Problems with condominium common elements should be brought to the attention of the condominium corporation's board of directors, which is formed after the complex is registered. If problems arise before the project is registered, the unit holders should form a committee and contact ONHWP for assistance.

After the builder's warranty expires:

Write directly to the Warranty Program about any major structural defects after the builder's warranty expires, up to the end of the five or seven-year warranty period. Remember, certain parts of your warranty coverage are covered by the builder for two years. Know your warranties.

Be an informed home buyer

Your new home is probably the most important investment you will ever make. Consulting this Guide is your first step in researching your new home purchase — but it is not the only step. Here are some other ideas that will help you make the proper choice of a builder, and some helpful hints for making sure your relationship with your builder and the Warranty Program is one that will protect your new home investment.

- ☐ DO YOUR HOMEWORK. Research the housing market in your community. Talk to family and friends who have recently purchased new homes. Check newspaper ads. Do some comparison shopping of local builders.
- ☐ DO SOME FIELD WORK. Find out where the builder you are considering has built in the past, visit those subdivisions to look at the houses. If possible, talk with some homeowners to see whether they were pleased with the builder's construction and after-sales service.
- ☐ CHECK YOUR FINANCES. Determine the size of down payment you can comfortably afford. Discuss mortgage financing available to you with your bank, trust company or credit union manager, or some other knowledgeable person.
- ☐ TAKE YOUR TIME. Don't be stampeded into a decision. Determine exactly what will be included in the purchase price, what selections you can make, what quality of cabinets, carpeting, or finishing you will receive, etc.
- ☐ GET A LAWYER. When you decide to buy, have your lawyer review the Agreement of Purchase and Sale before you sign. Have the estimated monthly carrying charges on the mortgage checked out. Ask about unforeseen costs that might appear later. You may have to pay land transfer costs or tax adjustments, for example. Your lawyer will help you find out about these things before you sign the deal.
- ☐ NEGOTIATE A REALISTIC CLOSING DATE. Both you and the builder should be aware of the factors which could delay closing. If possible, build flexibility into the closing of the sale on your present home or termination of your present lease.
- ☐ COMMUNICATE. Open lines of communication with your builder, by telephone and by letter. Find out whether you will be permitted to visit the construction site from time to time and how you can best keep informed of construction progress.

- ❑ KNOW YOUR RIGHTS AND RESPONSIBILITIES. Fully inform yourself about your warranty coverage provided by the Ontario New Home Warranty Program. Contact the ONHWP Regional Office that serves your area, and ask for the Program's other brochures and publications. The Regional Offices are listed at the back of this book.
- ❑ INSPECT THE HOUSE. When you receive the Certificate of Completion and Possession, inspect your new home carefully on your own, and then go over it with the builder's representative. Make a list of any problems that may need to be fixed: Test all plumbing and electrical fixtures. Check to make certain you have the appliances, cabinets and cupboards, special finishes, etc., that you selected. Look for damage which may have occurred during construction. You note any problems on the certificate, then you and the builder representative must sign it. The builder sends a copy to the Head Office of the Warranty Program. Keep a copy with your other house records.
- ❑ USE YOUR WARRANTY. This is your first opportunity to report problems to the builder or the Warranty Program, but not your only one. Check the details of coverage to determine the deadlines for reporting problems under the different parts of your warranty coverage. Always feel free to call the nearest Regional Office of the Warranty Program for additional information or clarification.
- ❑ TALK TO THE RIGHT PEOPLE. Ask the builder's representative to provide you with the name, phone number and mailing address of the person responsible for after-sales service and to explain how to get that service. The supervisor or foreman on site may not be the best person to assist you with service problems.
- ❑ KEEP RECORDS. Keep a copy of all correspondence with your builder. Whenever you make a complaint to the builder about an item that requires warranty service, send a copy to the Warranty Program. Your relationship with the Ontario New Home Warranty Program begins the moment you sign your Agreement of Purchase and Sale. The Program does not monitor contracts, but it exists to make certain home purchasers receive their full measure of warranty protection under the Act. You do not need the permission or co-operation of your builder to contact the Program. If your builder does not properly deal with after-sales service problems, the Program will contact him or her on your behalf — which is why it's important to have full records of any problems. When we have proof of what's been happening, we can help.
